Event Partners:

Join your industry colleagues in the Rocky Mountain region for the first annual AEC Collaboration Conference/Expo. With a shortage of time and money, it's a challenge to get to national conferences or user meetings, so this one is coming to you. This conference is designed for you to meet industry leaders and hear how to advance your company. With 15 plus Educational Sessions, Exhibitors, and Key Note speakers you have a full day to hear from some of the region's subject matter experts on key trends, emerging processes, and current issues in the industry.

The morning starts with Ryan Smith, Director of ITAC (U of Utah), speaking on some of the centers key research and exciting trends. The afternoon Session will be kicked off by John Moebes, Director of Construction for Crate and Barrel, speaking about advancing their delivery process using some of the latest technology.

During the break-out sessions explore the emerging technology, the processes and challenges as well as the integration surrounding BIM, LEED, LEAN, VDC, integrated project delivery methods, software implementation, virtual "Cloud" integration and the attached liabilities.

Beyond the education sessions spend the day asking questions and in general learning more from some of the leading tech vendors and process implementers during the day-long Expo. The Exhibitors, local and national, are available all day with special presentations to personal discussions on their products, services and uses.
