RE: CDA Website – Content Needed!

The CDA website is now live at www.CDAColorado.org – Please share this website with your association staff and member companies. CDA is looking for content to populate the website regarding your association's activities and your member companies' projects!

The following information can be posted on the CDA website if it is applicable to CDA and coordinated through the CDA Member Associations' Board Representative(s):

1. News – Must be applicable to the industry
2. Training Events (to post on the calendar) – Must be open to CDA with discounts for companies belonging to CDA member associations
3. Social Events (to post on the calendar) – Must be open to CDA associations and their member companies (the intent here is also to avoid scheduling of multiple associations' events on the same day)
4. Job Opportunities that your member companies have open to fill
5. Projects that you would like to showcase

For questions or content submittals, please contact:

The Constructors and Designers Alliance (CDA) is an alliance of 23 construction and design industry related associations. CDA works cooperatively to represent the interest of its member associations and their member companies to: help develop and support sound laws and practices; conduct jointly sponsored educational, social, and other events; promote better relationships and avoid duplication of efforts between the member associations and the firms who are members of each CDA member association.
